CHICAGO, MONDAY, AUGUST 13, 1860.

Father Combs has been elected Clerk of the Court of Appeals of Kentucky, by an immense majority. He is abead in 65 counties heard from 20,000. The effice is not a political one, though it is the most lucrative in the Satue, being worth $25,000 per annum. Men of all parties seemed to have voted for the old gentleman, ont of respect and sympathy for him. He is near 70 years old. He was a soldier in the war of 1812 and in the Mexican war; in both of which he distinguished himself as a brave and gallant officer. Gen. Combs was a bosom friend of Henry Clay and almost lives to worship the memory of the great statesman. This very circumstance gave him thousands of votes. We are glad that the firm old gentleman has got "a berth" that will place him in easy and comfortable circumstances during the remainder of his days. He was formarly well off, but adversity has reduced him.

The nomination of Lincoln was certainly the wisest that could have been made; the poor wisest that could have been made; the poor man's friend will take with the masses, and when the election comes on we will roll up such a major ity for him as will make the Democracy groan in spirit and tremble in their boots. I heard a leading Democrat say just before the Convention, that he dreaded the nomination of Lincoln much more than that of any other man in the United States, for this reason; He was regarded by all parties as an honest man. But the Douglas worshippers are about the sickest set of individuals you ever saw, for with all of their impadence they have not the efficuery to say they believe Douglas will be elected; but whenever the name of Breckinridge is mentioned they become loudly and biasphemously vitagerative.

Our ratification comes of next Saturday, and never in the history of Egyptian Republicanism has there bees so great an interest taken in this matter. Every town ship is preparing to send its delegation, not as the disciples were sent out, two and two, but by scores and hundreds. The meeting is to be and crassed by the Hon. Leonard Swert, Hon. Jish Baker and others. We anticipate a good time generally. duce grass from the recent rains, and when they have sitained the fatness it is possible to give them, slaughter everything about the beginning of cool weather, asving a few breedars to start on again? Ought not the wealthy man to give up for a season his carriage and piesaure teams, which would save as much corn per head every day, as would save as desen poor children from starring? Ought not the beauties of charity to be displayed before the rich in all of its attractiveness, and the pleasures of practicing it descanted upon, to incite them to help the needy around them? Ought not associations of capitalists to be formed in every county or needy district, to parchase supplies to sail cheap food to those who can pay for it, or give satisfactory assurance to pay in the future, and to give to those who have neither food, money nor credit?

We have no intention in these rambling remarks, of exciting a panic. We are not mistaken. The crop question in the Southern proseed, Prof. Alexander said:

I feel overcome, ladles and gentlemen, by the kindly reception we have met, from the moment we set our foot on shore, to an extent it is not easily to express. We have come from a land of monumental desolation into the midst of friends and social intercourse and delightful converse, and if my ideas should not be quite clear, I beg you will pardon me under such interesting circumstances. You are well aware that the observation of the total eclipse of 1800, at a point near the coast of Labrador, was undertaken under the patronage of the Coast Sourcy. I was the humble agent of carrying out the ideas of the Superintendent—that is, my associates and mysaif; for though the expedition had an ostensible head, that did not imply superiority on the part of any. We were to place ourselves as mean as possible how we selected our station, and what we saw when we got there. Pariles:

BOWRAY.—A worthy citizen of Mai.e., of fair social pestition, good plain understanding, and amiable manners, entered into the holy state of matrimony with a strong minded woman. Our narrative is brief. She had all things her own way, from the very first-hour. Her contempt for his mental powers improved every day.
His very inoffensiveness increased it. Her wishes soon assumed the tone of commanda.
They lived on for many years, and the "grey mare was universally acknowledged to be the better borse." In her presence, and that of third parties, he was rarely known to open his mouth; and he would no more have thought of giving at opinion upon any subject than of giving up the ghost. At length his career of passive obscience came to a close; and Miss Popkin "had not the least deubt what killed him." His last word, and they were remarkable words, gars something like color to Miss Popkine opinion. The Rev. Dr. Thunderbob attended him is his last moments; and the conversation between them has been assied as follows:

Never in my wildest dreams have I seen such scenes of grandeur as we saw when nearing our destination. For the last fifty miles, an unbroken chain of mountains, seemingly formed of cast trion, rose beyond the limits of arborescent vegetation, patches of snow still lingering on their eastern side, from which there came down to us a sensible chill. But what discouraged me more than all was at the base of that long barrier. Though the day was clear overhead, along that barrier slept a bed off mist, held there under the inexorable law of condensation by the mountains themselves. And when we arrived at our latitude and were trying to find some little opening through which we could eater, we looked upon the two we were to get on the plateau was not manifest stall. But there was that mist. It was a beautiful illustration of the laws of moisture; but, ch, it had no rainbow about it, and all the preparations that had been made so carefully, and all the expectation that had been raised—all seemed to have opposed to them a barrier as incorrable as the laws of mountain between ourselves and the ocean, or our work must ome to nought. And therefore, we penetrated a little inlet and found after a while, a set of terraces upon which we finally placed ourselves, and then the huge mountain barrier shut cut the fog under the same law. Sometimes the fog erept through like a huge serpant, but it came down on the warm side of the mountain range, and scarcely ever reached us. Our harbor was good and anu, and was clear, it was very clear, but it never remained so more than two days at a time, and with unincreasing anxiety we leaked forward to the great days. It seemed to promise that it would be very ridear, but it thankful that we could get so much. Now as to the different phenomens, and I canonly allied to them in passing, for the mountain matche the test that was not ones the Large, clear type, one part on a staff. to London, dated 35th July, is published. He says:

"Since the peace of Villa France, I have had but one thought, one object—to insugurais a new era of peace, and to live on the best terms with my neighbors, and especially with England. I had renounced Savoy, and the extraordinary addition to Piedmona slone assued me to assume the desire to see reantied to France provinces essentially French. You object that you wish for peace, and you increase it moderately the military forces of France. I deep the fact in certy some that my army and fiest have in them anything of a threatened character. My steam navy is even far from being equal to our requirements, and the number of steamers does not nearly equal that of sailing hand, have witnessed the defects, and wish to remedy them.

"Having said thus much, I have since Ville Franca, neither done, nor even thought, enything which could slarm any one. When Luxelette started for Contantinople, the intructions which I gave him were confined to this: 'Use every effort to maintain the statisque. The interest of France is that Turkey should live as long as possible."

Napoleon then touches on Syrian affairs, saying his first thought in the matter was to come to an understanding with England, and saks: "What other interest than that of humanity could induce one to soul troops to that could to an understanding with England, and asks:

"What other interest than that of humanity could induce me to send troops to that country?" He also says the interior organization of France and to increase her resources are fields large enough for his ambition, and sufficient to satisfy it. "It was difficult for me to come to an understanding with England on the subject of Central Italy, because I was bound by the peace of Villa Franca. As to Southern Italy, I am free from engagement, and ask nothing but deneer with England on this pout, as on others. In Heaven's name, let the emiment lay aside petty jealousies and unjust mis trusts. Let us understand one another in good faith, like housest men, as we are, and not like thieves who desire to cheat each other.
"To sum up, this is my innermost thought.
I desire Italy should obtain peace, an mater how, but without foreign intervention, and that my troops should be able to quit Rome without compromising the security of the Pops. I could much wish not to be obliged to understake this Syrian expedition, and in any case not to undertake it alone. Ist because it will be a creat and how we can leave unpunished not e massacre of Christians, but the burning Grova, July 31.—Advices from Damascus are to the 18th of July. 3,000 Christians had taken refuge in the citadel occupied by Algerines, under Abdel Kader. The town is in the power of murderers and incendiaries, to the number of 3,000. The Turkish garrison of 500 was inactive or hostile. Soldiers had drunents may be exaggerated.

Rev. Mr. Graham, of the Irish Presby Mission at Damascus, was mirdered in the open street. He had a guard of Turkish soldiers, but they did nothing toward defending him. New York Aug. 11.—Last night a 'errible affray occurred in a low groggery in Twelfth street, which grew out of the late prize fight at Weehs when, between Donnelly und Fox. Jas. Fox, brother of one of the fighters got into a quarrel with aman named Edward Claser, when Fox drew a knile and plunged it into the side of Clasey, inficting wounds which it is probable will prove fatal.

An affray occurred, in [the house of Jac. S. Martin in Delaware street, Brooklyn, in which a man named Chas. Z. Lewis received injuries which will probably prove fatal. It appears that Lewis has been for sometime past jaying his addresses to a daughter of Mr. Martin, and he turns out to be a married man, hence the affair, Marsin and son inflicting the injuries.

Chas. Rochinght was probably fatally injured by a heavy blow with a club from a woman named Bridget, on Putsam Avenue, Brokklyn, last night.

News from Fike's Peak.

Sr. Josern, Angust II.— Denver Cits, news to August 4th, has been received. The trial of Carl Wood for attempting to kill Byers, editor of the Mooty Mountaines News, closed Thursday. The jury stood one for and II against acquittal. The case was then referred to the people, who voted to send him out of Denver. Comparatively few citisens were present, the crowd being principally made up of Wood's frience. He was escorted to the edge of the town by twenty-fire men, and thence for several miles by his gambling friends. The result of the trial was altogether unexpected in the domminity, and has caused great indignation.

Mining news is unmapportune. So tich leads have been opened lately. Many are leaving daily for the States.

A Disbolical Attempt.

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 11.—A fieldish attempt to commit wholesale murder was made by some Douglas Democrats on Wednesday night, by tearing up a rail on the Chiesgo, Atton and St. Louis Railroad, at the sieep embankment at Liek Oreck bridge, the evident intention being to precipitate the large Rapublican excursion train from Springleid, bound for the south, down the steep hill-side. Fortunately, the disbolical trick was discovered in time to save the train, otherwise there would probably have been a wholesale slaughter of excursionists.

McConxelastro, Pra, August 11.—The Democracy held a County Meeting last night at which there was a regular akurmish between the Douglas and Breckinridge parties, and mass biliter feeling was evinced. The meeting broke up in a row.

During the absence of Mr. Lawsom, editor of the Democrat and Croscost, the Breckinridge party-entered his office, mutilated the forms, run up the Breckinridge flag and issued an edition of the paper. The affair created great-excitement. A personnal encounter took place after the meeting between Mr. Lawson, editor of the Democrat and G. A. Smith, a Breckinridge man and an attorney.
